INSULTS SWAPPED IN HEAT OF DEBATE

Clark Charge of 'Pettifogging' Brings Retort of 'Conceited Vanity.' By RICHARD L. TURNER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.— (AP)-Voting overwhelmingly to repeal the arms embargo, the senate tonight approved the administration neutrality bill and sent it on to the house, where the proponents of the measure claim a small but safe majority.

The 63-to-30 vote for the measure was the climax of four weeks debate in the senate and a discussion which has raged up and down the nation as a whole since the war in Europe began.

"Cash and Carry." The bill would permit the belligerents of Europe to buy American products of any kind, with the restriction that in general they must pay eash, may borrow no money here, and must provide purchases across the Atlantic. Further, it is intended to insulate the United States from the war, by laying down conditions designed to prevent "incidents" Nazi-French Clashes designed to prevent "incidents" likely to inflame public opinion or tending otherwise to drag this ountry into conflict.

Four weeks of debate had so fully covered the issue of the embargo, that when the senate reached the point at which it was confronted with what Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, called the "naked issue of whether we should have an embargo or not," the legislators finally found that they had nothing more to say. The vote on repeal, presented by Clark in the form of an amendment to insert an embargo into the present bill, showed 60 senators for repeal and 33 against it. Continued in Page 2, Column 3.

The measure will not have to start from scratch in the ho since that chamber passed last session a neutrality bill containing a modified arms embargo. The senate measure goes to the house as a substitute for that bill, and so the house procedure could be considerably shortened.

Repeal Favors Allies.
In actual operation, as was repeatedly pointed out in the senate debate, lifting the embargo would give the Franco-British Allies access to American war supplies to the virtual exclusion of Germany. It is assumed that the British fleet would keep the sea lanes open for such commerce and at the same time prevent Germany from making purchases here.

Much oratory and much voting on amendments preceded the final vote tonight. Chairman Pittman, Democrat Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee, and Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, a leading opponent of the Roosevelt bill, became involved in as bitter an exchange as the senate has heard in a long time.

"Pettifogging" Attacked.

Pittman and others had been speaking against an amendment by Senator LaFollette, Progres sive. Wisconsin, requiring a nato any declaration of offensive war by this country.

Clark accused them of beclouding the issue and indulging in "pettifogging" tactics. Pittman was on his feet instantly, his slender figure trembling with indignation. "Does the senator include my remarks in that?" he asked. Clark weighed the question. "I think the senator's remarks tould be so classed," he replied. "Conceit, Vanity," Charged.

Pittman flared up at once.
"You have a habit, in your com plete conceit and vanity of engag-ing in these things,—" he said, adding an accusation of "lack of "Mr. President." said Clark. "I call the senator to order for making personal remarks." Senator Lucas, Democrat, Illinois, presiding, summarily ordered parts of the chamber; spectators strained forward in their gallery seats. Senator La Follette ended it by making the motion customary on such occasion.

"I move," he said, "that both senators be permitted to proceed in order." Clark resumed his speech for the

The La Follette amendment lost, 73 to 17.

Reject Armed Ship Ban. The senate defeated, 65 to 26, an amendment by Senator Clark to close American ports to the armed merchant ships of belligerent powers. It also refused, 50 to 43, to reconsider an earlier decision against placing four members of congress on the national munitions control board. "Shameless Fakes"

President Roosevelt, in his speech delivered as part of the Herald-Tribune forum, not only uncovered a specific "shameless fake" when he said orators in and out of congress have been descanting against "sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe," but put his finger on one of the worst evils of the American system of politics.

For the political campaign that is not marked by one or more similar "shameless fakes," is a rarity. There are always candidates who drop all scruples if they think some outburst, false or true, will win them a few votes. Unfortunately, the libel laws are not so strict when applied to public speeches as they are when applied to newspaper publication.

Anyone familiar with the misnamed "neutrality act," knows it is far more likely to embroil the United States in the present war if it retains the "arms embargo" clause than if that unfortunate clause is repealed. The administration and all the pro-repeal forces are seeking to end a condition which is extremely perilous for the neutral status of this country.

The repeal they propose will be far more effective in keeping us out of war than the law as it now stands. All necessary to know this is to read and study the law and the proposed

Yet, simply because the misnomer "neutrality" attached to the law provides a convenient handle, many opponents of repeal have not hesitated to orate, as the President said, about "American boys going to die on European battlefields," and to charge all sorts of equally ridiculous purposes to those supporting the re-

Under that misnamed neutrality law of today, any American snip can carry any sort of goods, save a few forms of direct munitions of war, into any portion of any oceen, headed to any port. Thus they can, for profit, expose American ships to all the dangers of sinking, of search, of capture. The seizure of the American ship, the City of Flint, is a vivid case in point.

On the other hand, if the embargo clause is repealed, no American ship will be permitted to enter the war zones, the danger areas, with any kind of a cargo.

Any belligerent then may purchase from this side any product they desire, if they have the money to pay for it. Having paid cash and taken title, they may then load the goods into their own ships and take them across the ocean, to their own ports, at their own risk. They will not, however, be able to induce American ships to take part in that risky traffic.

The "breast beaters" of whom President Roosevelt spoke have been careful to keep the simple statement of the facts involved away from their constituents or listeners. For they know that, once familiar with the truth, American people are quick to understand.

The "breast beaters" would sooner the public remains misinformed, so they may continue their melodramatic oratorical fakery about "American sons of American mothers," and the "battlefields of Europe."

By his exposure, the President has rendered the people of America an important service. It is to be hoped the lesson on "breast beating," and "shameless fakery" will be remembered in the future, when other demagogues on other issues try similar tactics.

Three Days Needed

The south, according to news dispatches, is fairly evenly divided on the subject of Thanksgiving. The President will carve his turkey at Warm Springs on November 23—the mercantile Thanksgiving, it might well be called-and it seemingly is assured that Georgians will observe the same day. The now customary Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of the month will be observed in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and North Carolina. It is not unlikely that many states and many persons will observe both days, much to the pleasure of the turkey growers and the sellers of fixin's.

To be sure, the nation has much to be sure, the nation has much to be thankful for, and two days hardly will suffice. But the controversy has posed another deep and serious question—a third day will be necessary on which to give thanks that the Thanksgiving storm has been settled. How about April 1?

Peace and the East

Despite doubt the present Japanese government is sincere in attempting to placate the United States, it is becoming dearer that the policies of the military clique in the island empire are due for a rough going-over.

In the first place, the war in China was scheduled to last one year, two at the most. It has gone more than three and the end is not vet in sight. There are indications, from uncensored dispatches, that the army in China is not being adequately supplied from home, that patches on britches are more and more seen and that home-sickness is spreading like a virulent disease. But more than this, the Chinese government has trained and equipped many modern regiments back in the hinterland where the Japanese cannot hope to penetrate, unless foreign supplies are entirely cut off, which is extremely doubtful. These new units have met and successfully withstood Japanese offensives by crack troops, indicating it will be extremely difficult for the Japanese to extend their line of conquest or to defend outposts of the now conquered territory.

Peace becomes wonderful—to both sides under these circumstances, although a year from now the Chinese government might want to keep on going until it had conquered Japan. That might be poetic justice, but it would be rather hard on the Japanese and the rest of the world.

One danger the Japanese and the balance of the world's nations have overlooked in the China warfare is that of a resurgent, nationalistic Chinese government. It is probable that such a government would in the final analysis be far more dangerous to world peace than is Japan. The Nipponese have awakened the sleeping giant, and whether that giant now becomes a co-operative force or a destructive force will be determined largely by events of the next few months, in which the United States must inevitably play a large role.

If the United States, through Ambassador Grew, can persuade the Japanese government that a reasonable peace is to its advantage, and that such a reasonable peace would mean the continued co-operation of this government in trade and cultural development, then a new Far Eastern era may be opened, in which both warring nations would benefit. If this country cannot persuade Japan that the reckless smashing of treaty obligations should be halted, then increased pressure is sure to follow, a course which means suffering for the common people of Japan, but which is the only possible way in which the militarists can be brought to book.

The militarists may not want to come to an understanding with this country. But, more than that they do not want to stand weakened by long warfare in China to face the threat of Russian invasion. The fighting in Manchoukuo was ended by a truce and not by a far-reaching agreement. It will be well to remember that in the months to come.

Neighborhood Development

That a program of neighborhood development and activity must go hand-in-hand with the government's low-rent housing projects is apparent to even a casual observer. Just as Howard L. White, director of community relations of the United States Housing Authority said in a talk before southeastern housing officials at their regional conference here recently, "A successful housing project cannot be an isolated part of a community; it must be an accepted section of it."

This is an end which is not difficult of accomplishment. It can be done if, as White suggested, federal housing is supplemented by cooperation with public schools, libraries, clinics and park systems. It behooves the management of a low-rent project, therefore, to provide a regular plan of action, under professional supervision, to achieve through democratic processes a well-rounded community life of the tenants.

Large benefits to the community as a whole cannot help but result from the kind of community life within a low-rent project which White and other housing men envisage. It is a dream that should be realized.

ONE-VARIETY COTTON (The Dallas Morning News)

Results thus far from the export of one-variety cotton have been highly successful and have led to plans for continuing the practice on a larger scale. Foreign spinners have commented with much favor on the uniform lint produced by Texas communities that have joined in raising a single high-grade variety and have given special attention to ginning and packaging for export. The bales have been covered completely

Efforts to market 30,000 bales of one-variety cotton from this year's crop, compared with 3,800 from last year's, will give a much broader basis for determining the value of improvements in growing and marketing. Suggestions of European spinners, including one for use of fabrics of closer mesh weave in bale covers, are being taken into

European complaints against the low quality of much of this country's export cotton and against carelessness in its wrapping and handling have been common for years. This situation has been been common for years. This situation has been one of the factors leading to loss of profitable markets to competitors in other lands. Remedial measures now being taken here may go far in reviving a preference for American lint. Uniform high quality, combined with careful ginning, baling and wrapping and handling, is bound to meet with favorable response among buyers.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

BY JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

LINDBERGH'S REAL VIEWS WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Since Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has been accused of most of the theoretical crimes in the ideological been accused of most of the theoretical crimes in the ideological calendar, it may be well to set down his real views on the war, as transmitted by one of his closest friends. This friend, with whom Lindbergh has repeatedly conferred in the last weeks, is intensely anti-Nazi and strongly in favor of repeal of the arms embargo.

According to him, three factors are important in Lindbergh's attitude. First, Lindbergh remembers with admiration his father's fight against American entry into the last war, and with bitterness the abuse which his father suffered for it. He is a convinced keep-America-outer. Second, Lindbergh also has a pacifist's horror of the mere fact of war. Third, and most significant, Lindbergh still regards the German air force as greatly superior to the British and

The comparative air strengths of the warring powers was the chief topic he discussed (despite reports to the contrary) at his lunch with the pro-repeal senators following his first radio speech. He told them, as he has told his friend, that although the British and French have added many planes to their air armaments, it was his judgment they had done little to counter-balance Germany's greater echnical skill. He stated that the British and French might catch up in the future, but in a rather distant future. Being an air man, believes that air strength will be decisive. For this reason, he flatly prophesied to his friend that the war would end in a bloody and exhausting stalemate.

Such being his convictions, so Lindbergh added, he would prefer to see the war end at once, avoiding the dreadful waste of a long struggle against a fait accompli which cannot be reversed. And this preference of his, of course, is what has given rise to the report that he is pro-Nazi. It is easily seen how his feelings about the war, with his enthusiasm for German achievements in his own special field, have been honestly interpreted as implying sympathy for the German political system. But it is German technique, not with which he sympathizes, and it is the preven-German politics, tion of truitless bloodshed, not German victory, which he desires, He may be called a defeatist, but not a Fasicst.

SEEKING THE BEST COURSE His friend's report of Lindbergh's views is strongly supported by the true story of his two speeches, which has been told only in fragments. The first speech, in which he called on his country to think about the war with the cold precision of a surgeon using his knife, arose naturally from his feelings. Its fine style was strong evidence that Mrs. Lindbergh had a hand in its composition, and this is said to be the fact.

The first speech contained no reference to the arms embargo issue. After delivering it, Lindbergh visited the capitol and saw anti-repeal as well as pro-repeal senators. In his talks with them, not mention the arms embargo in a positive way. He then left Washington for some time, apparently to think matters over, and returned only two days before his second speeh. The first man he went to was Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, in whose hideaway near the senate chamber he passed most of a morning and took

SHOWED INDECISION It has been wrongly reported that Borah persuaded Lindbergh not to come out against the arms embargo, but to indorse the Hoover plan of a ban on offensive weapons as a substitute. Actually, Lindbergh showed the greatest indecision throughout the long discussion. He told Borah that, while he wished to keep America out at all costs, he was "not as much of an isolationist as you are," explaining that he did not think European affairs could be just forgotten. He said again and again that "we ought to be able to do something constructive" about the European situation. Borah, not knowing which way he was tending, made no suggestions in reply. In the end, Lindbergh talked himself, as it were, into favoring the Hoover plan. When he disclosed his decision to Borah, just as they were parting, Borah replied that he thought the plan was no Later, the same afternoon, Lindbergh also visited Senator Harry F. Byrd, one of the repealists. Again he disclosed his decision and again heard an adverse opinion. Nevertheless, he returned to the hotel where he was staying with Mrs. Lindbergh, barred the door against all his Washington circle, and wrote his This time, he may have written alone, for Mrs. Lindbergh reported to have disagreed with him.

In any case, the picture of a man honestly seeking the wisest course, without thought except for American interests, is implicit in the whole story. Lindbergh's decision may be held wrong, as both Borah and Byrd held it, but, unless he has utterly deceived the friend aforementioned, his motives cannot be criticized.

He thus spared Governor. Carvill the most painful trial of soul that befalls a man in American public life short of the duty to vote for or against war in congress, and earned the awe of men less stanch. would be ill-received This civility disposed of, I proceed to report that aside from her normal commerce with her sister states, Nevada has developed a unique practice, in part a sly and cynical racket but not altogether so. Nevada solicits the divorce business of those who must divorce, brazenly invites Californi ans up to evade—and substantial ly violate—the requirements of the narriage laws of their own state, and even more boldly tempts Californians and others to establish legal but fictitious residence with in her borders to escape paying their taxes, which Mr. Roosevelt once described as the price of civil-

It is known, of course, that Nevada, under pressure of competi-tion, dropped from six months to six weeks the period required for the establishment of a legal residence sufficient for the purposes of divorce. There is a pretense that this was done merely for her own convenience, but the insincerity of that is apparent in the fact that in Reno alone, a city with I think he is mistaken. Nevertheless, I like the navy and the people in the navy.
They are great companions and great Americans. The navy is our first line of defense and I hope some day we shall have a great navy in each ocean.

in each ocean. The navy has given us our finest traditions. There are army heroes but, after all, one thinks first of John Paul Jones saying, "I have not yet begun to fight," as he lashed his sinking Richard to the Seraphis and took her as a prize.

I went, while in Ireland, to the small town of Carrickfergus in company with a Dublin newspaper man who wanted to go too, be-cause Jones had done in an English ship near that town. He was willing to go anywhere to see where England had met with defeat. I wonder how he is, now the empire has gone to war and Ireland is friendly to England?

Jones was followed by the famed Decatur, hero of Tripoli. One thinks, too, of David Farragut at Mobile, saying: "Damn the torpedoes, go ahead."

The Civil War turned up its allotment of naval heroes in both vies. There followed Hobson and Dewey and others.

John Paul Jones was our first great hero and it was he who got us started on our affection for the navy; an affection has, at times, not been as strong or enduring as it might. the navy; an affection which

That is why I like Navy Day, celebrated yesterday in Atlanta. Captain Reed Fawell, at Georgia Tech, has done a grand job for the navy here in Georgia and the south. And Atlanta liked Admiral John Henry Towers, who was the guest speaker.

THE VALUE OF THE NAVY History shows Americans have realize the value of a strong navy. We do not really see how necessary it is to have a great navy in each ocean. It would protect America's peace and security more than any other one factor. Congress has been slow to see it. Now, I think, they do see. If only congress will cure itself of talking, and so much foolish talk, and get down to the business of spending our money on the army, the navy and on making this a better country for all the then we will have real peace. After every war we have had to learn the same old lesson. After the war of the American Revolution, there was a period in which we had no ships at all. Oh, there were those who said it was a wide ocean and we didn't need a navy. (They still say it today, do the unin-formed, even though airplanes fly it almost daily.)

It was quickly found, however, we needed a navy. The pirates at Tripoli were in action. Congress finally grew tired of paying tribute and authorized the building of a few ships. A half dozen frigates were built and we had a great chapter written in our history. Stephen Decatur was the hero of that rather tough engagement The pirates of Tripoli were strong. Decatur became captain of the "Constitution" at the age of 25. He served "Old Ironsides" well.

After that we had a queer little quarrel with France and built few more ships. When the War of 1812 came along we were all set. It was fought, and won, largely on the sea and the Great Lakes. Thomas Jefferson, who tried out the "embargo policy," sponsible for our loss of naval strength. It was almost exactly the same policy the Borah war bloc is seeking in congress today. It was the only weakness in that great American's thinking. Jefferson made few errors. This was his only serious one. THE WAR BETWEEN THE STATES Enthusiasm cooled only to be revived by the War Between the States. The blockade of southern ports helped win the war as much as did U. S. Grant's bulldog tactics.

Again there was a lapse in interest. Not until the eighties did congress vote to expand the navy. By 1898 we had only a sorry navy and it defeated the Spaniards, who still had wooden ships, and meager forces. Again interest waned. Not until Teddy Roosevelt came into office did the navy get more attention. Teddy made it a great power and took it around the world in a 30,000-mile cruise.

The impetus given it by Teddy saw us reach the first World War in fair shape, but only fair. Nevertheless, the transport and convoy job done by the American navy in that war remains the single greatest accomplishment of the war. After the war we were the only nation really sincere in scrapping ships. With typical American naivette, we scrapped good ships and some new ones in the making. Another Roosevelt came along and gave the navy encouragement and new life. It was needed,

MOST INSUFFICIENT Let's be honest. Our navy today is most inadequate. It falls far short of even minimum requirements. With two great oceans, distant possessions and the vital Panama canal, we need two great navies, one in the Atlantic, one in the Pacific.

They are more necessary and more important than capital ships of the line. Our navy is far behind Germany in submarines and aircraft. We today are surrendering certain neutral rights because we believe in peace. The nations of Europe do not understand. They think it weakness. Let's get more ships, cruisers, destroyers, subs, battle wagons. Let's get planes. Navy Day is an excellent time to take stock, to renew pride in our country and to pledge anew our loyalty, our faith and our pride.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad To His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT OUILLEN.

My dear Louise: In that wisest of books there is mention of false prophets and such who shall deceive the very elect. And if these can be fooled, a little girl who is not yet worldly wise needs to be on her guard. I am not afraid of your developing wrong and foolish ideas if you know the truth, for you are pretty level-headed; but in times like these, when mighty forces are struggling for mastery, the servants of evil pose as the servants of good and try to win your support for wrong by calling it right.

People are so easily fooled by false labels. During the last few weeks, a misleading label caused millions of them to do exactly the opposite of what they wished to do. This is the way it

Many months ago, when war threatened, congress passed a neutrality act to keep us safe. It prohibited sale of arms to warring nations, but permitted our ships to carry all other goods to them.

When the war began, Mr. Roosevelt asked congress to change the neutrality act—to permit the sale of arms to nations at war, provided they would pay cash and carry the arms home in their own ships, but to insure America's safety by forbidding our ships to carry anything at all to the belligerents.

Almost at once congressmen were flooded with letters and telegrams urging them to make no change in the neutrality act. Some of these messages were sent by people who wished to help Germany, but most of them came from true Americans whose one desire was to keep us out of war.

\ Does your history tell you why we went to war the last time? Many reasons are given, but the truth is that congress declared war because Germany was sinking our ships. And Germany sunk our ships because they were carrying goods to England and France -not arms alone, but wheat, metals, cotton and meat. So the people who asked congressmen not to change the neutrality act were in reality asking them to continue the arrangement that got us into war once and would almost certainly get us into war again. They desired peace, but asked for something that would A false label had fooled them. Because it was called a neutrality act, they trusted a measure that would destroy our hope of safety. False and misleading labels are the most effective weapons of evil men. Every vile organization trying to destroy our freedom calls itself "Christian" or "American" or something equally misleading. Look behind the labels, my dear, or somebody will poison you.

Navy Considers Concentrating Energy on Constructing Fast Cruisand Destroyers.

By EDWARD E. BOMAR. WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 .- (AP)-The United States Navy may declare a year's "holiday" on the building of additional new battleships, and concentrate instead on fast cruisers and destroyers.

This was reported today in authoritative quarters, which indicated that the primary reason was the crowded conditions of American shipyards. In addition, German air, and underseas, raids on British shipping have dramatized the necessity for plenty of light speedy surface craft. Cruisers and destroyers are indispensable in convoying merchant ships, combatting submarines, and protecting capital ships.

Confidence Undiminished. Confidence Undiminished.

Officials emphasized that they had undiminished confidence in the battleship as the backbone of sea power. They made plain that battleships already ordered would be built, and that replacements would be made regardless of the spectacular air and U-boat raids.

The holiday plan if it is adopt-The holiday plan, if it is adopted, merely involves postponement of construction of additional new capital ships for a year. Chairman Scrugham, Democrat, Nevada, of the house naval sub-committee said he understood the warship program to be submitted to congress next year omitted provision for further capital ships, for the first time since 1936.

Ignore Navy Day.

TWO OLD DESTROYERS WILL BE REPAIRED

of emergency.

Naval officers said two other destroyers from the Philadelphia yard would be towed here for recommissioning as part of the widespread reconstruction of out-ofservice warships announced in Washington, D. C., recently.

ALCOHOL AND PROGRESS. Sunday's lesson is the quarterly international temperance lesson, and the committee bases this study on the following passages of Scrip-ture, Micah 2:9-11, Luke 21:29-36, and I Corinthians 6:9-11, treating the discussion under the title, "Beverage Alcohol and Social

I wish every person in our land would take his or her Bible and read the above cited passages of God's Holy Book. My opinion about liquor or any other subject is liable to be wrong, but none of us, I trust, could entertain for a moment any doubt concerning God's Word, and when you read what the best to say about the intermediate of the say about the say He has to say about the intemperate use of alcohol, you cannot be in doubt about its evil.

There are three words suggested by the committee in considering the effect of beverage alcohol on social progress. I want you to consider these words as they point to the immediate and ultimate effects of liquor upon society: Beverage alcohol "burdens" social progress.

Beverage alcohol "blights" social progress.

Beverage alcohol "blots out" social progress.

This lesson clearly shows what liquor does to the home, what it does to the state, what it does to the individual. And any student of the present social order knows the individual. And any student of the present social order knows that these conclusions are unanswerable. For example how many individuals and institutions get into frightful business difficulties because of liquor. Ask any teacher of college students how many of them succeed and at the same time drink liquor. Ask any social worker how many homes are wrecked by liquor. Ask any policeman how many people get into trouble because of liquor.

Evangeline Booth has one of the strongest and fairest statements regarding the evils of liquor I have anywhere ever found:

"Drink has drained more blood, hung more crepe, sold more houses, plunged more people into bankruptcy, armed more villains, slain more children, snapped more wedding rings, defiled more innocence, blinded more eyes, twisted more limbs, dethroned more reason, wrecked more manhood, dishonored more womanhood, broken more hearts, blasted more lives, driven more to suicide, and dug more graves than any other poisoned scourge that ever swept its death-dealing waves across the world." It got on his nerves and remained there. It got to be a phobia. There was never any anger. It was all courtesy. But the engineering stu-dent dreaded going to his room. One day, when the phobia was at its peak, a telegram came from the father of the engineering stu-dent. It said that a congressman

Berlin Reports Soviet Agreement To Transport Soya Beans From Manchoukuo to Border.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(UP)—German informants said tonight they were informed from Dairen, South Manchuria, that Russia has agreed to transport 1,000,000 tons of soya beans from Manchoukuo to the German frontier over the Russian state railways.

If correct, the report means that Germany has solved an important part of her food problem which admittedly is acute because of the Anglo-French blockade.
Germany long has been a major consumer of Manchurian beans, which were shipped by wa-ter and processed into margarine, meat substitutes, and other food products. Payment is made under barter arrangements provid-ed in the Manchu-German trade treaty.

(Tokyo last week reported negotiations were under way between Manchoukuoan exporters, the Japanese South Manchurian railway and Rustransport of beans to sia for transport of beans to Germany via the Russian trans-Siberian lines.)

The Germans said their taking of Manchurian beans for the next year will be 200,000 tons in excess of last year's imports and will provide Germany with 200,000 tons of margarine and 800,000 tons of bean cake which is used as food

ATLANTA AIR LINK SOUGHT BY AKRON

Knoxville Joins in Fight for New Lines Here.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)—Quicker and more direct air transportation between cities in the southeastern states and points on the Ohio river was described by witnesses at a Civil Aeronautics Authority hearing today as the principal requirement in any expansion of airlines in the south.

The authority is considering the rival applications of five airlines for directly competing or related routes, and for the second day heard a parade of spokesmen for cities and chambers of commerce describe the need and potential traffic for the new routes.

John R. Meeks, of the Akron,

Ohio, Chamber of Commerce, said Akron wanted direct service to Atlanta and Brunswick, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala., through Pitts-

Frank L. Barton, representing Knoxville, Tenn., said that city's principle need was for direct serv-ice to Cincinnati and Atlanta, with connections at those two cities for points beyond.
Frank Shaw, of the Atlanta

Chamber of Commerce, presented a written report on Atlanta's requirements for additional air service, but made no verbal statement at the hearing.
In addition to Delta, the airlines with applications on file are Dixie Airlines, Inc., Pennsylvania Central Airlines Corporation, Southern Airlines, Inc., and Eastern Air-lines, Inc.

WESTERN UNION, POSTAL MERGER REPORT IS DUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(P)— Lawrence Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commis-sion, said today the commission would make "some report pretty shortly" on the possible merger of Western Union and Postal Tele-

'Revised' Schedule Permits More Riders, Reduces Extra Charges.

A "revised" schedule of taxicab fares which increases the initial "drop" from 30 to 35 cents but which will mean "a great saving to the majority of cab users" was announced yesterday by A. L. Belle Isle, president of the Black & White Cab Company. It was effective at midnight.

Under the new setup, it was pointed out, five or more passengers will be able to ride 3.3 miles for 35 cents whereas under the old rates the charge was 30 cents for four passengers with an extra charge of 10 cents for each passenger over four. The charge for additional mileage will be 10 cents for each two-fifths of a mile as before regardless of the total and extras of all kinds including baggage charges are eliminated, it was explained. "This is a simplification of taxi rates," Belle Isle said, "which will prove a great saving to the majority of passengers who come from the radius of the initial flag IS HELD BY JAPANESE drop. 'The Old Maid' at the Fox Is Filled With Deep Emotion

'Mr. Smith' Held Over at Rialto; Loew's Offers Marx Brothers; Paramount, Jane Withers; Capitol Has Crime Club Mystery.

By LEE ROGERS,

Motion Picture Editor.

Every so often the film cutters do show a touch of humanness and give the supporting characters a break, especially when their acting deserves it. Miriam Hopkins, formerly of Bainbridge, Ga., so benefits in "The Old Maid," currently at the Fox theater, with Bette Davis Stars in Midnight Show starred. Miss Hopkins gives a fine performance throughout and matches the best acting that Miss Davis puts forth. In no scene does she give a notch to the queen of the Warner Brothers lot.

As to importance, there are only four persons in this picture. Bette in the title role; Miriam as the girl who marries riches; Donald Crisp as the family doctor, and Jane Bryan as the daughter of the man both women loved. George prove there was a father.

Loved Unwisely But Well. "The Old Maid" when a young maid loved unwisely but very well. is confronted with the problem of giving up her love-child or her husband-to-be. Bette and Miriam clash in a vivid scene when Bette tries to explain the decision she must make. Miriam advises to seek understanding of the fiance until she discovers the child's father is the man she also loved.

The story of Bette's love affair is none too plausible. But once the presence of her daughter is established, with the father dead on a battlefield, the bachelor mother dedicates her life to the child, even to the extent of giving herself to a life of loneliness, deliberately becoming precise, bossy and dictating to make the child hate her, rather than ever suspect her of being her mother.

Not an Ordinary Film. "The Old Maid" is not an ordinary picture. Though a costume film, and a trifle long, it overflows with deep emotions of love and only of the Poles but also of the hate-with sharp clashes between a woman who was loved and woman who wasn't as they battle summer residence for the conse- among them also thousands of for the affections of the daughter cration of 12 missionary bishops on Catholics, who were butchered by of the man both once loved. Jane learns he is in danger of being discovered and hastens to save him. The Ritz brothers, dressed in German costumes for a benefit performance, are mistaken for the real thing by the French and chased into Ger-man territory—there to be hailed as heroes returned from the grave. Installation of a new system at the white industrial farm for boys had run into new difficulties yes-terday—with the county commis-sioners scheduled to hold a special meeting at the residence of Com-missioner Gloer Hailey this morning to straighten things out.

Four of the commissioners met yesterday to consider the problem of what to do about the status of Ira H. Dodd, newly elected head of the institution, but adjourned without action because of Hailey's

Dodd was elected by the board upon Hailey's recommendation re-cently but so also were four other employes. Dodd objected to having the personnel of the farm named for him, since his was to be the responsibility of correcting critical conditions there. He has never sent the commissioners a formal letter of acceptance of the position of superintendent.

In a letter yesterday, he wanted to know of the commissioners whether he or somebody else was going to run the place.

Commissioners Ed Almand,

BREAKFAST'S READY FOR 40 NEWCOMERS

New Atlanta Residents To Be Welcomed Today.

Approximately 40 new residents of Atlanta will be honored by the newcomers' committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at a breakfast at 8 o'clock this morning at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Reuben Arnold, attorney, will be principal speaker at the breakfast, which will be presided over by N. D. Eubank, chairman of the newcomers' committee. Alvin B. Cates, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the new group and the Rev. Herman L. Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church, will deliver the invocation. Total attendance at the breakfast will be approxi-

Chamber officials pointed out that during the past 40 years the average yearly influx of new families was 1,800, or 7,267 persons. If the same rate of increase con-tinued from now until 1950 the city would get 80,000 newcomers during that period. Such an increase would be equivalent to the total population of Mobile or Montgomery or Little Rock, it was

than Georgia has this year. Five straight defeats by Georgia and M. Hickeyo, of Atlanta. Guill when he was coaching at Yale naturally still rankle mightily in the Stevens breast.

Stevens lost only 11 games while he coached at Yale. Five of the defeats—almost half of them—were handed the Blue by the Red and Black of Georgia.

On the face of it Stevens can afford to talk big this time. He has, as said, the talent. N. Y. U. has beaten Colgate, Penn Military and Carnegie Tech.

did not deign to talk big when Georgia was in the chips, so to speak. He had nothing to say in those years when Georgia was clipping Yale steadily.

He simply would have been heaping fire on the heads of the Yales had he done so. Georgia had the talents then.

I think, perhaps, his ill-advised talk about roughing, which is refuted by the records, will tend to make Georgia play a more spirited game. But it is difficult to think that the Bulldogs can be inspired enough to win.

The Bulldogs have the will to win as much as any team that catur High school, 39 to 0, as ever wore the colors, but the talents are lacking. The fight is not. Hence, Georgia may play N. Y. U. a whale of a game through sheer courage.

Tulane Accorded Edge Over High-Scoring Ole Miss Eleven.

By BILL BONL NEW YORK, Oct. 27 .- (P)-The college football campaign, which each week has managed to pro-duce one game of overshadowing importance, turns up another "natural" tomorrow in the meeting at Columbus between the unbeaten and untied forces of Ohio State and Cornell.

It brings together two crack representatives of their sections— Ohio State, a team with better morale and better balance than in recent years, and ranked with Michigan as Big Ten co-favorite, and Cornell, best team the east has produced so far and strong choice to retain the championship in the Ivy league.

Some 60,000 will be in the Buckeyes' stadium to see this clash, but the day's honors for attendance, once again, are due to go to Notre Dame. The Irish move into Pittsburgh, stacking their hopes for a perfect season against the embattled Skibos of Carnegie Tech, and a sell-out crowd of better than 65,000 will witness the fes-

Washington Gets News After Ship Has Sailed; Envoy Reiterates Indignation Over Treatment.

WASHINGTON. Oct. 27.—(A)—Russia informed United States officials tonight that she had acted according to international law and "obligations of a neutral" in ordering the captured American freighter City of Flint to leave her territory with a German prize crew in charge.

Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador, who relayed this message from Moscow, said he had been informed that the vessel had been ordered out of Murmansk in the "same status as she entered," that is, with the prize crew in charge, the American crew on board, and the cargo intact.

Demanded Possession The United States had demanded possession of the American ves-sel, which had been seized by a German raider as a contraband carrier and taken to Murmansk. However, Vladimir Potemkin, as sistant commisar of foreign affairs told Steinhardt today that to ac cede to the American demand would be an unneutral act."

The American ambassador advised that he had reiterated "my indigation" at the lack of co-op-eration by the Soviet government in withholding information from me while issuing communique with respect to the City of Flint through the medium of the Tass Agency (Soviet news agency). Potemkin replied that Tass was an official agency of the Soviet government and that it was the custom of his government to make announcements through it. Crew Aboard, Well.

Steinhardt said that in response to his inquiries as to the welfare of the American crew, Potemkin told him it was his understanding that they had been on board the ship all the time and were well.

The Soviet government's posi-tion with regard to the return of first importance. the ship was ascribed to interna tional law which permits a prize crew to bring the vessel into the harbor of a neutral in case of some condition making the ship unseaworthy. Potemkin advised that the German crew reported the City of Flint's machinery was dam-

All day, resentment against Soviet Russia had been intense among officials here as the State Department was balked in its attempt to get official information about the freighter.

The picture is to be called "The Biscuit Eater," and it is a poignant story of the love of two small boys for a dog, a dog whose unconventional activities earn for him the worst term of opprobrium known to followers of field trials.

The action calls into play all of the director's ability in drawing out the real selves of the actors who portray their own true characters, from kitchen hands to junior leaguers, from hard bitten trainers to deeply religious dwellers of the lonely roads and trails.

Among many, it has one high moment where the boys baptize the "biscuit eater" to free him of his sins, and it has another when they make the dog lapse into his errors, at least psychologically, to save the noble profession of dog raising from giving place to the

They are shooting all of the outdoor sequences on the vast hunting estates to be found on every side, estates formed of the inviting savannahs which drew first the birds long years ago and then the hunters and those un-cannily efficient yet loveable dogs that are such a familiar part of the daily scene.

They point out that hunting has a universal appeal and that many of its devotees are persons of unlimited means. Such a widely spread display of the advantage of this whole region, they feel, will bring about the establishment of many additional estates, of hunting clubs, of resorts for individual sportsmen and an influx of desirable new settlers to swell the population of this none too populous region and enhance its productivity.

General interest, however, cen ters more at the moment in the preparation of the picture than in its probable economic results.

They have been shooting the picture since October 16, after a week of preliminaries, and in so doing have caused Albany to go Hollywood. And Sincere

By Caroline Chatfield.

Thumbing through a volume on a friend's table the other day, my eye fell on a chapter headed "Do You Wish to Be Popular?" Everybody at some time has the vagrant wish to be popular but few there wish to be popular but few there be that can hold it and follow through with the determination to put over the program. And I'm not so sure that it is a laudable ambition anyhow.

Nowadays' the shop psychologists lay out the prettiest sort of patterns for the yearners after popularity. They make your mouth water thinking about the progress you are going to make by nightfall of the first day's experiment. But the truth it that most really worthwhile is that most really worthwhile people are too busy to be both-ered with us and too smart to be taken in by us when we are embarked on the campaign for personal popularity.

We needn't kid ourselves: it's the hardest work in the world. Even when we are blessed with pleasant personalities, enviable positions and memories so good name, it's hard work to make all

To Make Friends, MY DAY Michigan Broadens Be Unselfish MY DAY Field of Education

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—I did not have space yesterday to tell you that I had the pleasure of meeting, in Muncie, Ind., the two young fliers who set the new endurance record by staying in the air for 22 days. They were in a plane which did not allow them to stand up, so one boy said that when they finally landed his knees buckled under him. I asked them what they had to eat during this long period and was told that tomato juice and fried chicken was a favorite diet. One boy added that it still is his favorite diet in spite of having had a good deal of it during the past few weeks. They are going to have their first flight in a Douglas transport plane this week, since they are journeying to New York to appear on a radio program.

On arriving in Detroit this morning, we made our way to the station restaurant for breakfast, where we were joined by four of my nieces and a sister-in-law, and then we continued on our trip to Ann Arbor, Mich.

I have heard so much about the University of Michigan, that I am particularly glad of the opportunity to see it. The trees alone would make the grounds attractive, but the campus has some really beautiful buildings and I am looking forward to seeing the interior of some of them this afternoon. This morning I went out with Mr. Connor, regional director of WPA, and saw a project which is being conducted in collaboration with the university. Men and women, under able supervision, are gathering source material for use throughout the state by other projects which are making visual material of various kinds to be used in public school work.

For instance, in the source project, a young colored man showed me drawings he had executed of a Dutch kitchen. It was perfect in every detail. With the kitchen went the details of figures ing the clothes worn by men and women of the period and listing the materials from which they were made. There will be an exhibit here next week showing examples of this work as done throughout the state, and this morning I saw part of the exhibit. There were dolls in foreign and period costumes, ships which began with the savage who floated on a log and continued up to the modern steamships, houses of various periods and many other things, all beautifully made. The thing which interested me the most was a series of maps showing the condition of the soil in various parts of the state. I was told that the material for these maps had been gathered over a long period of years, but never before had been made available to the public because there was no money to do the work of cataloguing and making the maps.

There is one unique project being carried on here—a correspondence course available to people of low incomes at whatever level of education they may find themselves. This is a much needed personal service, and the fact that papers come in for correction at the rate of some 200 a day would tend to show that people are anxious to avail themselves of this new opportunity for education.

Harris Urges 'Fire Plug' Plan of Specialized Scientific Charity.

chairman of the 1939 Community Fund Appeal, told a group of 100 women who had gathered at the Woman's Club Friday to organize for the important role they will play in the November 6-18 campaign for $541,403. "Too many of our good citizens have taken it upon themselves to augment the organized social working agencies of the com-munity," Mr. Harris explained to the ladies composing the women's central division, headed by Mrs. J. N. McEachern Sr. and Mrs. Emmett L. Quinn. Holding up a bucket in one hand, Mr. Harris pointed to a com- street, N. E. mon fire plug and asked the women how they thought fires in the city should be fought.

Bucket Or Fire Plug? "If we are all going to handle our own charity, then the bucket brigade idea is all we need, but if we are going to depend on organized forces represented by the fire plug, then we should conto the Community Fund and let the 33 agencies handle our charity and character-building efforts in a specialized and scientific way," the general chairman de-

Harry Sommers, chairman of the Community Fund board of trustees, said at the session that the $541,403 goal set for the appeal should not startle anyone.

"We are asking the people of Greater Atlanta to give $140,000 more than they contributed last year. The need is that much greatera We have money in this and we have culture in this town today by Federal Judge Albert L. and there is no reason whatsoever why we cannot raise $541,403 for such a cause, Needed For Good Job. "If we fall short of that goal, then we will hear contributors claim that the Community Fund agencies are not doing all they should do. That will be because the agencies can't do a proper job with less than their actual minimum need.

"We can fully answer every single objection anyone might make about the Community Fund or any of the 33 agencies which participate and I know we can blast any excuse for not giving that hesitant contributors may care to advance, Mr. Sommers concluded.

The ladies witnessed a skit on the proper and improper way to solicit for the Community Fund. Presented by four employes of the Atlanta Gas Light Company under direction of F. C. Terrell, those in cast were Hamilton King, faced fire, water and storms in Martha Cornelius, Carl Clausen and A. H. McAfee Jr.

lected steels, aircrafts and rails staged a late rally today as the senate voiced its approval of repeal of the arms embargo, and some issues not only recovered losses but in addition posted small net gains. The market was a soggy affair from the opening until well into the afternoon. Light, but persistent selling kept dribbling in and values were pushed down fractions to 2 or more among the favorites. Shares continued to ignore the steady flow of encouraging domestic business news, including more favorable third quarter corporation earnings reports and heavier dividend disbursements.

Traders held the grist of Euro-pean news, including the possi-bility of new peace moves, of litimmediate influence on securities trends. Then, late in the session came the news the senate had voted to the arms embargo and repeal steels, aircrafts and rails snapped out of lethargy, paring losses and here and there establishing small gains. Bonds closed lower. United States governments tapered. Commodities moved unevenly. Wheat at Chicago, after early weakness, spurted upward to end 7-8 to 1 1-2 cents a bushel higher. Corn was unchanged to 1-4 cent off. Cotton finished 10 to 20 cents a bale advanced.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Sugar futures took another nose-dive today. Domestice contracts rang up new lows for the season and the world list shifted still further from the gains made at the outset of the war.

Ordinarily cattle should be grazing over green wheat fields as the plants shoot up through the soil and send down roots for firm foundation for winter. Instead, with the onset of cold weather and the dormant wheat period only weeks away, there is little pasturage and much wheat has not been planted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.-(A)-After notable firmness most of the week, low yield bonds turned downward today and carried many junior and speculative issues along the same path.

Foreign loans, in which price swings have been erratic, slid off sharply, with Italians leading the way.

While selling was fairly active in parts of the list, traders at-tributed the general heaviness to some drying up of buying interests. Total volume of $6,263,000 face value compared with $9,230,-000 yesterday.

United States governments extended yesterday's irregular de-cline with new losses ranging from 1-32d to 15-32ds of a point. Treasury 2s of '47 countered the main trend with a closing gain of 12-32ds. Some dealers were reported to have withdrawn pending marketing of $250,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation notes which the Treasury plans to sell shortly.

Harvey S. Williams, market commentator, said that with harvesting a full month ahead of normal it is possible the first rush of new corn may be over soon and then country offerings will increase only on price advances. Spot prices were 1-2 to 3-4 cent lower today.

The oats and rye markets mirrored the action of other grains.

Lard was depressed by weakness of hogs.

SYPHILIS RATIO HIGH.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 27—(P)—
The Out-Patient Department of University Hospital treated 27,229 patients in the first six months of 1939. Dr. W. H. Goodrich, hospital superintendent, reported to the board of trustees. Of that number, 10,923 were treated for syphilis.

The trenches are about seven feet deep, built with fire steps and frequent bays for machine-guns.

In this Scottish regiment the tradition holds that while the troops go without overcoats the patients in the first six months of 1939. Dr. W. H. Goodrich, hospital superintendent, reported to the board of trustees. Of that number, shivered in their tunics watching among the crew and he was forced to put several in irons while the ship was tied up in Bordeaux.

The captain said he had never seen so many men "patched up after fights," but that he would not file charges against crew members.

LEGACY OF LOVE

Rita Sees Delores, Who Returned With Harry Handy, Not the Count

BY KATHRN BEMIS.

By KATHRN BEMIS.

Rits Rhodes, heir to a large fortune, wonders what is wrong with her as she and Preston Meeker sit in masquerade costume in a Pasadena-garden; he is the third man to ask her to break their engagement. As he leaves, a man in clown's costume appears, saying. "It's a darn thame! I'm at yeur service and you're soing to see a lot of me. "Rita's perenhially young mother Delores cables Wilmot Green, her fourth husband, from Paris that she is divorcing him just at Rita recognizes the voice of Stanton, the new chaffeur engaged by Green, as that of the clown. She asks him to explain. Rita sidisconsolate when he quits to sell automobiles. Green commits suicide, having lost Rita's entire fortune, and Roger Brewster's mother Selia asks her to be her social secretary. Roger introduces Tom Cleveland, whose grandfather left millions, and Rita is amazed and indignant, for Tom is Stanton. Eva Sheen has her cap set for Tom who asks Rita to trust him until he can explain. Rita finds a man shot to death on a club's beach and picks up a cigarette case there bearing Tom's initials. She mails it to him and is convinced he is guilty when he phones that he is going away. Eva says she saw Tom in Sun Valley and initimates that the sapphire she is wearing is his engagement ring. While Rita is protesting to Roger for his giving the impression they are engaged, he kisses her as Tom appears in the door of Roger's many proposals. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

I'm engaged to—Roger Brewster."

David Cushman Coyle Visits Here, Says Spending To Be 1940 Issue

New Deal Economist Interviews His Interviewer on Problem.

By LUKE GREENE.

The question of whether there should be continued government pending for constructive projects will loom large in the 1940 national elections, in the opinion of David Cushman Coyle, pro-New Deal economist and author of "Brass Tacks" and other books.

He was in Atlanta yesterday before going to Athens for a lecture Monday at the University of Georgia.

The Washington writer insisted on interviewing rather than being interviewed. He is anxious to know whether a Democratic candidate who advocated a program of spending for improvements would be popular with the voters. Wonder What Is "Safe."

"Politicians are going to want to know what's safe to bring up," he said. "They don't want to stick their necks out. We are going to have to spend $2,000,000,000 to build up our navy and there is the question of whether the peowant to continue health and education programs, reforestation soil erosion control, housing and similar improvements.'

The author pointed to Atlanta's housing projects as an outstanding example of what he meant by

TARZAN—By Edgar Rice Burroughs

WHEN MARIKA'S GUARDS SEIZED HER, JANE WAS ASTOUNDED THAT TARZAN OFFERED NO AID.

MARIKA HAD JANE THROWN INTO THE SHIP'S STRONGROOM, AS SHE LOCKED THE STEEL DOOR-

CRIED OUT! THERE'S NO AIR INTHERE! THE POOR LASS WILL DIE!"
